Remote Instruction Pause

Dear Hampstead School Community,

As a reminder, April vacation is scheduled for next week (April 27-May 1). We are thankful for this opportunity to break from remote instruction and we look forward to spending more leisure time with our families and reflecting on the rollout of this instructional phase and how we can improve the delivery of enriching and meaningful instruction moving forward. The support of our school community has been amazing, and much thanks and appreciation is extended to both our faculty and school families.

Remote Progress Report

Immediately after the April break, our teaching staff will dedicate that following Monday, May 4th, to generating remote instruction progress reports for their students. These reports are not to be confused with report cards that will be disseminated after the close of the school year as typical. Remote instruction progress reports will provide an update on the progress and participation of each student with respect to grade level content and skills, since the beginning of the remote learning period. This important information will allow parents to assist and support their student as needed. Parents can expect to receive their child's progress report by the end of the school day on May 8th.

With Monday, the 4th dedicated to our work on the remote progress reports, students will return to remote instruction on Tuesday, May 5th.

Parents and staff members should contact their building principal with any questions as well as for assistance with remote instruction, the food service program, or any other school-related initiative.

Thank you for your support and enjoy your much-deserved time off from remote instruction.

Sincerely,

Dr. Earl Metzler,
Superintendent of Schools
