NYC public middle school and high school students are invited to join the 2022 Summer Design Institute (SDI), a 5-6 week-long Career and Technical Education (CTE) summer program. Students will learn valuable career skills and connect with industry professionals while building their portfolios. Successful completion of the program qualifies for a stipend. To apply, please contact the program coordinator noted below.

Staten Island Technical High School (Staten Island)

High school students have the option of choosing one of three focus areas of study during this 6 week program including: Computer Science, Engineering, and Media Arts. Sessions run from July 5-August 11 and meet Monday - Thursday from 8AM - 1PM. Contact Jared Jax: jjax@schools.nyc.gov

Art & Design High School (Manhattan)

High school students are invited to explore advertising, visual art and digital design in this 4 week immersive program mentored by industry professionals from HBO Max Pa'lante. Sessions run from July 11- August 12 and meet Monday - Friday, 10AM - 2PM. Contact Carl Landegger: clandegger@schools.nyc.gov

Thomas A. Edison High School (Queens)

Middle School and High School students will engage in a Design Thinking program that incorporates 21st-century skills. Students co-design a project that will be showcased at the program's conclusion. Sessions run from July 5 - August 12 and meet Monday - Thursday from 9AM - 1PM. Contact Navindra Haripersaud: nharipersaud@schools.nyc.gov